

THE HON. GEORGE D. ALDEN, LECTURER

The Second Number of the Normal Lecture Course is to be One of the Greatest Attractions of Season

On the evening of December 7th, Flagstaff people are to have an opportunity to hear one of the greatest and most famed lecturers the Lyceum platform of America has to offer. Judge Alden is a man with a message and he knows how to deliver it. Newspapers throughout the country vie with each other in singing the praises of this notable orator. An Iowa paper has this to say of him:

"He went at his address hammer and tongs. The writer has been attending public addresses of all sorts for thirty years, but never before has he encountered a man who has put so much energy into his remarks as did Judge Alden. Before he had been speaking two minutes, his audience was magnetized by his eloquence and earnestness. He is a member of the supreme court of his state and his message is a sermon from a lawyer and a business man to his fellows."

Another says: "He is clean and clear-cut; he has Yankee wit coupled with Yankee practical sense; he has courage and conviction; he is the typical man with a message."

The Eldorado Advocate pays him this tribute: "In his great lecture, 'Needs of the Hour,' he brings a message that every man, woman, and child should hear. He ably presents, cleanly and concisely, the views and conclusions of a hard-headed lawyer and business man. Every word he speaks is truth and should be given heed."

A Minnesota paper says: "His boyish ambition to be a poet has left its traces with the keen, logical lawyer and one of the best parts of his lecture were the original verses with which it was interspersed, hitting our weaknesses, but dulling the blow with the sweetness of his song. With language incisive and striking epigram, he spoke to the heart and intelligence of his audience. He deals with vital topics and touches them with the sparks of life. He inspires and incites with his brilliant, thoughtful letter."

So we might go on and quote from the enthusiastic press comments his lecture has excited throughout the country, but enough has been said to show that Judge Alden is a man of no ordinary ability, and that we are assured of a brilliant, scholarly, and withal, a practical, commonsense lecture at the Normal Hall, Dec. 7.

FRANKLIN B. DORR KILLED AT CLIFTON

Franklin B. Dorr, founder of the Douglas Daily Dispatch, was shot and killed at Clifton, Ariz., by William Allender at the close of the performance Tuesday night of the moving picture theatre that Dorr recently purchased. Allender used a shotgun and with the second barrel killed John Barrone, a saloonkeeper. Two Mexicans were wounded, one fatally.

After the shooting Allender barricaded himself in his carpenter shop, which was surrounded by officers and armed citizens who shot into the building. After being wounded several times and seeing escape was impossible, Allender blew off the top of his head with a revolver.

Financial differences caused the murder. Allender was the former owner of the theatre. Dorr until recently was a law partner of United States Attorney Morrison of Bisbee.

Dorr was a resident of Coconino county about twelve years ago and the republican candidate for district attorney. He lived at Williams.

COLORADO TOURISTS VISIT FLAGSTAFF

Last week too large "steamers" came to Flagstaff, carrying six passengers each, together with equipment for all kinds of emergencies and encampments. The company was from Colorado Springs, Colorado, and were headed for Los Angeles. Just the object of the trip was not clearly divulged, but from what could be ascertained the excursionists were sight-seeing and enjoying an outing. With the party was Mr. McGruder, the well known Colorado Springs photographer, accompanied by his wife. This gentleman carried a fine panoramic picture machine, and all along the trip had made very fine pictures, ranging from 4x16 inches to 12x18 inches in size. Some of the country through which they passed was fine. They had made good time, and, all things considered, the trip was an enjoyable one. Mr. McGruder was very much pleased with the auto road from Winslow to Flagstaff, stating that it was the finest road they had passed over since leaving Colorado Springs. The company left last Thursday evening for Williams, from which place they expected to visit the Grand Canyon. This company of tourists will help to boost the northern auto route as they were all delighted with the roads, the climate, and especially the scenery of the route.

STOCK GROWERS TO MEET AT CAPITAL

President and Secretary of National Association Plan for Meeting at Phoenix

The annual meeting of the American National Live Stock Association will be held in Phoenix on the 14th, 15th and 16th of January. The official call for the meeting, signed by the president of the association, H. A. Jastro, and the secretary, T. W. Tomlinson, has been issued already.

The association's headquarters have been for the past several years in Denver. In the next few weeks the secretary of the organization will be in Phoenix to attend to the final work for the Phoenix meeting. Many things of interest to the live stock growers of the country and to the western live stock growers in particular will be discussed.

Some of the most important subjects contained in the official call will be: Import duties on live stock, meat products, wool and hides. Control or disposition of semi-arid unappropriated public grazing lands. Railroad rates on live stock from intermountain country to Pacific coast points. Cases involving live stock rates now pending before the interstate commerce commission. Rules governing transportation and railway service on live stock. The margin between what the producer receives for his live stock and what the consumer pays for his meat products. The meat inspection tax and the tax on oleomargarine.

For the meetings of the association this morning the high school auditorium has been secured. The visitors will be entertained by various trips through the valley, including one to the Granite Reef diversion dam. The Arizona Cattle Growers Association will meet this morning in the office of Dwight B. Heard and consider ways and means for the convention and other entertainment to be offered.

KILLED BY TRAIN NEAR COSMINO

W. F. Callender, foreman for the L. J. Smith Construction Co., was killed by No. 2 about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning a mile and a half east of Cosmimo. He had entered the cut east of the crossing, which is on a curve, being slightly hard of hearing, he did not see No. 2 until it struck him. A blacksmith jumped out of the way just in time to save himself, but saw the train strike Callender throwing him as high as the cab. He was struck again by the baggage coach and badly crushed. Callender was a resident of Kansas City where he leaves a daughter about 15 years old.

He was foreman of the steam shovel outfit and a spur for the machine had just been constructed. Coroner Harrington held an inquest on the body in the afternoon.

It was claimed by witnesses that the train was going about fifty miles an hour, and that none of them heard the bell ring nor the blowing of the locomotive whistle. The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death.

The remains were brought to Flagstaff and prepared for shipment to Kansas City.
